

With a funding requirement of $250,000, this project focuses on the development of advanced water conservation and recycling technologies in drought-prone regions of Australia. Scheduled to last 18 months, the initiative aims to mitigate water scarcity and improve agricultural efficiency. This medium-risk project emphasizes resource sustainability and ecological balance.